

Who can participate?

- You had to flee from your country, you know the situation of other women living in refugee camps and you are active in the support of other women or you want to become active in the future
- Or you are a woman who has been living in Germany for a long time now and you know already some of the support and advice organizations or volunteers in your town or you want to get to know to them in the future
- You speak German well and can effectively communicate with other people
- You have time to attend our introductory weekend workshop in November 2018 and at six all-day workshops between January and June 2019
- You are interested and have spare time beginning in July 2019 to carry out your own project and initiatives long term
- You are between 18 and 100 years old
- You can cope well with emotional and stressful life stories and situations, and your own mental condition is stable

If you have children, you can bring them along—there will be child care during the workshops. You can register together either as tandem coordinators or alone. We will try to find a tandem partner who lives close to you. In particular, we encourage women from rural and remote areas to register.

The workshops

Over the course of the workshops from November 2018 to June 2019, we offer free training for workshop tandem partners from various areas in Bavaria. One woman with and one without experience of fleeing her country make up a team and work together over the long-term.

The two of you create projects for other women.

Your activities on the topics of protection of women and children refugee camps strengthen other women to be able to protect themselves and their children better. You help women in acute need. You learn to identify signs of threat and violence early on. After participating in the workshops, you can refer women to experts and counselling services as well as network better with one another.

You are the contact people for your town since for many women, it is easier to turn to people they already know in their neighbourhood. You will connect women in need of help to professional organizations.

What you can expect

The introductory weekend workshop in November 2018

You get to know the other participants. You receive an introduction into the topics and bring your own personal experiences and ideas to the table. We present you with various methods that you learn about more intensely during the all-day workshops and that can prove useful in developing your own projects for women. Together we consider what projects women in refugee camps need to enhance their protection.

All-day workshops from January until June 2019

Over a total of six all-day workshops on Friday to Saturday evening from January to June 2019, you will be informed on the following topics:

- Forms of violence
- Signals of violence
- Laws on violence protection
- Strategies for self-protection
- Counselling and guidance conversations
- Dealing with traumatized individuals
- Basics of asylum and residence laws
- Understanding of relevant contact and advice services for women in emergency situations
- Project planning and implementation of one's own projects
- Empowerment

...and your own requests for topics will of course be taken into account!
